

Will Cater, Brian Smith, Mark Steverson
CSCI 360
Team Project 2 – Activity Diagrams
17 January 2007

Chapter 2 Exercise 7:

Chapter 2 Exercise 9:

Assessment

1. The cooperation of the team members was excellent. No bickering or complaining was done when roles were established. Each member did exactly what was agreed upon and then assisted the other members with their areas.
2. The team's performance could be raised by working together face to face, rather than the exchange of ideas over instant messenger or email. Although usually the only feasible option, working through instant messengers and email, effective as it may be, detracts from the growth of the group into a team.