

CSCI 110-004
Spring 2008
Dr. Jim Bowring

Paper # 1

Due 25 January 2008, midnight

Chapter 4 introduces Hypertext Markup Language (HTML.) You are to research some aspect of the history of HTML. Topics include, for example, the origins of HTML, biographies of key individuals in the development of HTML, the evolution of standards for HTML.

You will present your research in a paper of at least 1250 words length, excluding the bibliography. You will present and develop a thesis about your findings.

Details:

Paper:

1. cover page with title, author, date, class, etc.
2. body of paper with references to the bibliography
3. bibliography
 - a. at least three academic references
 - b. present references using MLA formatting

Font: 12 point

Submittal:

1. Convert your paper to a portable-document-format (PDF) file.
2. Name your file as your Edisto email account name followed by "PAPER1.pdf" – for example, a student with Edisto email of JStudent@edisto.cofc.edu will name the file JStudentPAPER1.pdf.
3. E-mail your paper to me at BowringJ@cofc.edu, with the subject line: "CSCI110PAPER1"

Grading standards

- 15% - instructions followed
- 15% - spelling and grammar correct
- 15% - well-organized presentation
- 55% - thesis stated and proved